About Me

Bringing over two decades of rich professional experience in training, mentoring, and team management, I have evolved from a qualified social worker and soft skills trainer to a proficient L&D specialist. My career trajectory has been marked by designing and delivering comprehensive training and development programs in diverse fields. These programs are tailored to enhance skills, productivity, and work quality, ultimately fostering employee loyalty. I am adept at pinpointing training needs that align with organizational strategic priorities, crafting focused plans, and implementing them effectively to meet corporate goals.
